101 MINERS ARE TRAPPED BY MINE EXPLOSION

BELIEVED FEW HAVE SURVIVED TERRIFIC BLAST

RESCUE WORKERS ENTER SHAFT OF OKLAHOMA MINE GAS BLOCKS THEM FROM PENET- RATING INNER RE- CESSES

Wilburton, Okla., Jan. 13.—Rescue workers, who entered the 600 shaft of the Degnan-McConnell Coal Mine No. 21, where more than 100 miners were trapped by a terrific explosion, today reported they had talked with several of the entombed men who expressed their belief that but few of the miners had survived the blast.

The mine is about three miles west of Wilburton, county seat of Lattimer county, and a town of 2,226 inhabitants. Wilburton is about 40 miles due east of McAlester.

Members of the rescue squads, however, were unable to penetrate into the furthestmost parts of the tunnel because of the gas.

Mine officials said between 100 and 105 miners entered the mine this morning, shortly before the explosion occurred. The terrific blast hurled timbers from the depths of the mine out of the mouth of the shaft and into the air.

As soon as word of the disaster was telephoned to Wilburton, business came to a standstill while relatives and friends of the miners hurried to the mine in automobiles.

The explosion is believed to have been caused by ignition of a gas pocket in one of the underground tunnels of the mine. Officials indicated that a carbide lamp of one of the miners may have set off the gas-filled passages.

The Degnan-McConnell mine is one of the largest coal mines at the eastern end of the McAlester valley area.

An augmented crew was sent into the mine this morning, many of them old miners of this community and former union workers, who because of lack of money had been forced to re-enter the mine as non-union employees.

Lists of the men entering the mine this morning have not been obtained, as the time keeper was reported assisting at the shaft in the rescue.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 13.—Blame for the explosion at the Degnan-McConnell mine near Wilburton today, entombing more than 100 men, was placed on incompetent mine inspectors by Ed Boyle, chief state mine inspector, here.

Boyle, who believes virtually all the trapped men met death in the blast, declared a federal injunction prohibiting union miners from entering the shaft is hindering rescue work. Fear of arrest if they enter the mine company's grounds is keeping them from aiding rescuers, Boyle said.

Non-union miners are employed at the mine.

Muskogee, Okla., Jan. 13.—Sixty members of the state militia under command of Col. E. L. Head, Muskogee, will mobilize at once and prepare to leave for the Wilburton mine area where over 100 men are reported caught in the Degnan-McConnell mine blast.

8 MINERS KNOWN TO BE ALIVE

Wilburton, Okla., Jan. 13.—With eight known to be alive of the 105 miners entombed in Coal Mine No. 21 of the Degnan-McConnell Co., near Wilburton, wrecked by a terrific explosion today, rescue workers continued frantic efforts to reach the imprisoned men at the bottom of the 600-foot shaft.

Communication was established with the few victims known to be alive in the shaft's bottom early this afternoon. Muffled shouts informed rescuers that eight men had escaped the explosion and gas. Only meagre information trickled through the beamed and broken debris at the 500-foot level.

The survivors were unable to tell how many others had escaped or how many had died in the inner workings of the mine.

Mine officials continued to doubt that more than a few of the trapped men survived the blast.

Rescue directors early this afternoon turned their efforts toward the repairing of the tippie preparatory to the clearing away of main shaft obstacles and the lifting of the dead and injured.

A relief train, dispatched from McAlester, and bearing five doctors, eight nurses, attendants and rescue workers was on its way early this afternoon to the Wilburton mine.

Bad Feeling Between Miners and Operators Grows

900 PER CENT STOCK DIVIDEND 'MELON CUTTING'

New York, Jan. 13.—(UP)—Another 900 per cent stock dividend was proposed by a prominent industrial firm today.

Following such a "melon cutting" on the part of Nash Motors yesterday the directors of the Central States Electric corporation presented to stockholders a proposed increase of the authorized common stock from 150,000 to 1,500,000 shares for distribution in a stock dividend.

FAULKTON IS FLOODED BY CURIOUS FOLK

A. W. EWERT, FORMER TREAS. S. D. RURAL CREDITS BOARD, IS ON TRIAL

CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT WHILE TREASURER OF THE BOARD

Faulkton, S. D., Jan. 13.—(UP)—A host of state officials, witnesses and curious citizens flooded Faulkton today for the trial of A. W. Ewert, former treasurer of the South Dakota Rural Credits Board, entrusted with the state's $50,000,000 enterprise, now charged with embezzlement.

Because of its political significance, the case has attracted intense interest throughout South Dakota. Ewert guided the financial destinies of the credits system during the gubernatorial administration of Senators Peter Norbeck and W. H. McMaster. He was removed from office by the present governor, Carl Gunderson.

Rapid examination of veniemen yesterday assured completion of a jury before adjournment tonight. Twelve tentatively accepted jurors were in the box as the second court session started, Judge J. H. Bottom, who is presiding, predicted a jury would be sworn in before noon.

A motion by the defense demanding another bill of particulars filed by the prosecution was overruled before the task of selecting a panel began. Another defense motion for expenses of expert witnesses to be borne by Hughes county was granted. Ewert has been adjudged bankrupt and is unable to meet trial expenses.

A year ago this same Ewert was a power in South Dakota, influential and wealthy. As president of the National Bank of Commerce at Pierre he was one of the financial leaders of the state. The bank has since been closed.

The prosecution in the present trial will contend that Ewert used rural credits board money to bolster up personal and bank finances. The defense will blame depreciation of land values for the depletion of rural credits board funds.

ANOTHER COLD WAVE IN WEST

BLIZZARD TOO MAY ALSO STRIKE THE GREAT LAKES TERRITORY

Chicago, Jan. 13.—(UP)—Another cold wave and blizzard may strike the middle west and Great Lakes territory tomorrow, the weather bureau declared today, just as this forecast area was recovering from the effects of the brief but intense cold wave of Monday and Tuesday.

The new storm is sweeping out of Manitoba, the weather bureau reported.

Meantime the temperature in this area and Canadian points west and north of Manitoba rose sharply enough to melt the snow.

Two deaths in Illinois were ascribed to the cold and snow of Monday and Tuesday.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 13.—Sub-zero weather which came to Milwaukee and vicinity on the heels of a five inch snowfall yesterday, gave way to warmer weather today as the mercury climbed up to 10 degrees above. Snow flurries which began last night are expected to continue most of the day, according to W. P. Stewart, local weather forecaster.

The cold wave, according to Stewart, was driven eastward.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 13.—(UP)—Madison and vicinity was given relief today from the sub-zero temperatures of Monday night and Tuesday with street corner thermometers registering 11 above zero.

LUTHER'S NEW TASK TO FORM TEUTON CABINET

NOW BUSY SOUNDING OUT PAR- TY LINES IN RE- PUBLIC

GERMANY'S CABINET "CRISIS" DRAGGED ALONG SINCE HOLIDAYS

By FREDERICK J. KUH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Berlin, Jan. 13.—Dr. Hans Luther, who rose from burgo-master of Essen to the important post of chancellor of the German reich, today agreed definitely to undertake formation of a new cabinet succeeding the old Luther cabinet. Officially committed to this work by President Von Hindenburg, Luther accepted and proceeded to sound out party leaders.

Germany's cabinet "crisis" she has had a score or more since the war—had dragged since before the holidays.

Luther's acceptance came at a time when the Pan-German elements were becoming more active against the parliamentary system and increasingly in favor of a "strong man," meaning, in reality, a dictator or some sort.

An "emergency association" composed of such die-hards as Count Reventlow, the former Kaiser's son, Prince Oscar, and the former Kaiser's adjutant, Gen. Von Domes, has been formed to sabotage the Dawes plan and keep Germany out of the league. Its platform contains many of the customary observations of the ultra-monarchist group as to "enslavement of Germany" and "capitulation of the government" to the allies.

Communists in Saxony, too, are showing increased activity but the government does not take their plans tragically. Luther will probably seek his cabinet from the middle parties since the socialists have declined to participate in a so-called "big coalition."

8 BANDITS HOLD UP N. Y. E. SIDE CAFE

BETWEEN $8,000 AND $10,000 IN CASH TAKEN FROM 200 DINERS

ECHOES OF THE WILD WEST CAME IN DARING HOLD-UP

New York, Jan. 13.—(UP)—Between $8,000 and $10,000 in cash was taken from 200 diners in an east side restaurant early today by a gang of at least eight bandits. Echoes of the wild west came in the daring and leisurely hold-up. Six of the bandits carried two guns each. And, typically of the mining camp "bad man," the leader by way of introduction, fired three shots into the floor.

The victims were large owners and waiters of other east side resorts.

This accounted for the large amount of money obtained, since many had in their pockets the night's receipts.

Washington, Jan. 13.—(UP)—Reservations which would prevent the world court from acting upon important United States domestic problems were proposed by Sen. Overman, North Carolina, democrat, today, as the senate resumed consideration of the world court issue.

Overman's reservations would prevent questions concerning the admission of aliens, territorial integrity, foreign debts, the Monroe doctrine, "or any purely governmental policies" of the United States from being submitted to the court for decision.

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Jan. 13.—The western independent-progressive group has regained its potential balance of power in the senate, it was indicated as votes approach on farm relief, tariff revision, tax reduction and the Brookhart-Steck election contest.

With the seating of the new young insurgent, Senator Nye, republican, North Dakota, the bloc which combined with the demands to put over democratic principles in the last congress, now has a minimum strength of nine votes and a potential strength of 16 votes.

Any time that these nine votes combine with the full democratic strength against the administration group, the result would be a 48 to 48 tie. If any one of the remaining seven potential independent republican votes, including Senators Borah, Capper, Couzens, Harrell, McNary, Schall and Stanford, swing away, the anti-administration group would have a majority. Seven voted for Nye.

Inasmuch as it is almost impossible to keep the full membership of the senate present at all times, republican leaders are highly concerned for the future.

The new line-up in the senate is attributed to reports which recently have come out of the farming west, concerning supposed dissatisfaction with the present order of some things, particularly farm relief. Involved in the same movement is the agitation for tariff reduction and a tax reduction bill differing considerably from that adopted by the house.

Nye joined with the independent group on his first vote, the McCamant issue, within a few hours after he was seated.

Aligned with him in this fundamental bloc of nine are: Brookhart, Iowa; Frazier, North Dakota; Howell, Nebraska; Johnson, California; LaFollette, Wisconsin; McMaster, South Dakota; Norris, Nebraska, (republicans), and Shipstead, farmer-labor, Minnesota.

MILLION DOLLARS OF JEWELS TAKEN FROM FLORIDA HOME

PALM BEACH MANSION OF GEO. L. MESKER IS RAN- SACKED

DETECTIVES BELIEVE IT MAY HAVE BEEN AN INSIDE JOB

West Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 13.—(UP)—A million dollars' worth of jewels alleged to have been stolen from the Palm Beach home of Geo. L. Mesker, wealthy retired Evansville, Ind., fence manufacturer, were sought by private detectives and police today.

The jewels were reported to have been stolen at a house party given by the Meskers last night. Detectives working on the case expressed the opinion that it may be an inside job.

Police have secured a list of the guests at the party, it was said, and some of these may be questioned, together with servants in the Mesker home.

The loot is said to include: Nineteen square diamond brooches of 31 diamonds each, and each set in cut crystal.

A basket of six cabichon, one emerald and three rubies.

One sapphire ring.

One seven-karat emerald cut ring.

One diamond and platinum ring.

West Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 13.—(UP)—Burglars who raided the Florida home of George Lake Mesker of Evansville, Ind., stole more than 50 diamonds as well as numerous other gems but the total loss will not exceed $15,000, Mesker told the United Press today.

Police had first estimated the loot as near a million dollars.

The jewels were stolen while Mesker and his wife were dining with friends.

Mesker said the missing jewels included one brooch containing 19 diamonds, another with 31 diamonds, one seven-karat diamond, a sapphire, an emerald and three rubies.

U. S. MARSHAL DOES NOT FEAR INVESTIGATION

RICHARD WHITE, EASTERN DISTRICT OF WISCONSIN, MAKES STATEMENT

SAYS HE DOES NOT KNOW OF ANY CHARGES PREFERRED AGAINST HIM

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 13.—(UP)—Richard White, United States marshal of the eastern district of Wisconsin does not fear an investigation of his office and declares he does not know anything about the charges that are said to have been preferred against him.

"I know nothing of any charges that have been preferred against me in connection with my work as marshal and I have received no word from the attorney general's office indicating that my conduct has been the subject of any criticism," White said when asked what he knew of charges said to have been preferred against him and which are now in the hands of the attorney general at Washington.

"Reports have been circulated that E. A. Geiger, federal judge here, has addressed certain letters to Atty. Gen. John S. Sargent in which he is said to have laid before the department certain charges against White.

The charges are said to have been made in connection with the commitments of Edward Grieb, former real estate agent, who was sentenced to five years in the federal prison after conviction in the Union Food Stores swindle case. Grieb for a time was committed to the house of correction here and only recently was removed to the federal prison.

Federal Judge Geiger refused to make any comment on the case and nothing has been heard from Washington regarding the charges.

EXPLOSIONS ON SURFACE OF THE SUN

THESE ARE BELIEVED TO BE THE ORIGIN OF THE MYSTERIOUS SHRIEKS

THE WHISTLES AND HOWLS OF STATIC ARE LAID TO SOLAR START

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Those mysterious and unearthly shrieks, whistles and howls which are anathema to the radio fan may be blamed on explosions on the surface of the sun, Professor Forest Ray Moulton, of the University of Chicago Department of Astronomy believes.

In a lecture last night, Prof. Moulton said that the explosions on the sun probably have a distinct effect on radio reception.

"When the explosions occur on the sun it means that vast balls of fire and stupendous rockets are shot out into space for distances ranging from 60,000 to 175,000 miles," he said. "The effect is felt for millions of miles farther causing even deviations of the magnetic needles of our planet."

The world was in the spiral nebula stage about 2,000 million years ago, Moulton estimated. This is the stage where vast masses of matter come together and begin to coalesce and finally emerge into planets.

In 1,000 times a million times a million years—represented by the figure one and 15 ciphers—the sun will pass close enough to break up the earth and start the process of evolution all over again, Moulton calculated.

TO EXHUME BODY OF 3 MONTHS BABY

APRIL FARM MATTERS INVESTI- GATED BY ALLENTOWN AUTHORITIES

Allentown, Pa., Jan. 13.—(UP)—In the "great swamp" cemetery near April Farm, officers today will exhume the body of the three months old child whose death has precipitated investigation of Charles Garland's social experiment.

The body was ordered exhumed last night, the district attorney maintaining that an autopsy should be performed to determine formally the exact circumstances of the child's death.

Coincident with this order, Bettina Hovey, who is alleged to have been the mother of the child of which Garland himself is listed as the father, surrendered herself to officers here. She had been missing from the "Back to Nature" colony since the investigation of the child's death reached a critical stage.

The cause reported in the baby's death certificate was suffocation, resulting from a throat infection.

Garland maintained his strict silence today, remaining at the pretty 200-acre farm where he and a group of men and women associates were applying their theories of a community life.

NO DEFINITE PLAN TO END THE HARD COAL STRIKE

ALL CONCERNED ARE PESSIMIS- TIC SINCE YESTERDAY'S ADJOURNMENT

FINISH FIGHT WILL VANQUISH EVEN THE VICTOR IN THE STRUGGLE

By PAUL W. WHITE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Jan. 13.—Amid intense bad feeling, anthracite operators and mine union leaders were returning to their homes today, with no definite project for bringing to an end the hard coal strike now well into its fifth month.

When the joint conference broke off negotiations at Atlantic City last August both sides expressed optimism that the suspension would be brief. There was no exchange of bitter personalities. Yesterday's adjournment, on the other hand, found the conferees in deep acrimony. Unless the federal government intervenes, and there is no assurance of such action, a long, desperate economic struggle is in prospect.

Such a finish fight will vanquish even the victor, many observers predict. The miners, the operators and the public are certain to lose.

It is estimated that the 158,000 or so miners already have lost around $120,000,000 in wages, the operators have forfeited the profits of a daily production of 270,000 tons of coal and the public has been forced to pay for substitutes in many cases at prices higher than ordinarily would be paid for anthracite.

The introduction of oil burners and the satisfactory use of bituminous coal and coke may have given the hard coal industry a blow from which it will take years to recover.

However much the wiser heads of the conflicting groups desire permanent peace in the industry, present prospects are negligible. Tomorrow the miners' representatives in the conferences here will meet the full wage scale committee in Hazleton, Pa., and report the course of the futile negotiations. This meeting probably will produce nothing tangible but a vote of confidence in the union officials.

Some dissatisfied factions no doubt will propose that the 10,000 maintenance men at the mines be withdrawn. Leaders were confident that this action would not be taken. The maintenance men are kept at work by joint agreement of the conferees at Atlantic City.

It is known that a few operators would like to open their mines in an attempt to break down the morale of the strikers. It is considered extremely doubtful, however, if such a course would be productive of anything but bad blood. Fear of potential rioting no doubt will prohibit re-opening any of the mines at this time.

Gov. Pinchot's address to the special legislature of Pennsylvania, convening today, and the conference between Secretary of Labor Davis and his observer at Washington are being closely watched by both miners and operators.

BILL TO HAVE PRESIDENT TAKE OVER THE MINES

Washington, Jan. 13.—A bill, giving the president power to take over and operate anthracite coal mines during emergency periods, was introduced in the house today by Rep. Boylan, New York, democrat.

The president would be authorized to "safeguard the public health and protect and promote the public welfare" by operating mines during a suspension of activity, under the bill.

SEA SCOUTS TO BE FORMED

Meeting at Scout Executive's Office
Tonight to Organize
First Crew

SQUAD TO BE NINE BOYS

Must be 15 Years Old, Attained Rank of Star Scout, A. Hagel to be Skipper

A meeting will be held tonight at the Scout Executive's office in the court house at 7:30 to organize the first crew of sea scouts, taking land lover scouts and making seafaring men out of them. This crew of sea scouts will be composed of nine boys who must be 15 years of age, attained the rank of star scout which means that he has become a first-class scout and received five merit badges. A. Hagel will be skipper. The following group forms the first crew: Dale Saunders, Earl Jamison, Guy Hawkins, Hallett Clarkson, John Ellison, Donald Geist, Gaylord Kinney, Winel Barnes and William Johnston.

The program holds many wonderful opportunities for the boys, for instance, they will be able to take a cruise next summer up the Mississippi River and have a clearwater way of 200 miles to be taken advantage of. Through the courtesy of the American Legion they have two regular navy cutters 25 feet in length, equipped with two masts and sails for sailing and eight oars form a side. It is possible after the crews have advanced for enough in their work to give them all a free trip on one of the government boats of the Great Lakes from Duluth to Buffalo and back, which in itself, is well worth working for.

It is expected that within the next month or so a second crew will be organized and sea scouting will be a reality—a thing long hoped for. The work will be staged at Lum park where boats will be docked and all boat drills will take place on Rice lake. Organizing these crews will enable the scouts to take advantage of the wonderful lakes in this vicinity.

IS YOUR WORK HARD

Many Brainerd Folks Have Found
How to Make Work Easier

What is so hard as a day's work with an aching back? Or sharp stabs of pain at every sudden twist or turn? There is no peace from that dull ache.

No rest from the soreness, lameness and weakness.

Many folks have found relief through Doan's Pills. They are a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Brainerd people recommend Doan's S. J. Greer, horseshoer, 822 S. 7th St., Brainerd, says: "The constant bending and straining my back irritated my kidneys. When I got down to put a shoe on a horse it was about all I could do to get up again. I sure was in pain and it became hard for me to do my work properly. My kidneys didn't act right, but when I used Doan's Pills I was fixed up in good shape."

FARM SURPLUS PROBLEM TINGES AMERICAN POLITICS

SELECTION OF PRESIDENT MAY BE BASED ON FOUNDATION
LAID NOW

2 SCHOOLS OF THOUGHT SPRING
UP IN THE CON-TROVERSY

By JOSEPH S. WASNEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Jan. 13.—Split over the intricate farm surplus problem, the national co-operative marketing conference today developed into a political meeting that may become a big factor in the next republican presidential nomination. Delegates representing 2,000,000 organized farmers, have divided into two factions. One group is supporting Judge Robert W. Bingham of Louisville, Ky., president of the organization who has asked the agriculturists to put their faith in President Coolidge and Secretary of Agriculture Cordiner to lift their business to a higher plane.

Bingham is opposed to any federal legislation to solve the surplus problem. He contends that co-operative societies can handle their own business without government interference. Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, has gathered an aggressive group on his side, demanding legislation on the surplus problem. He favors a federal board for handling surplus crops. Bingham is seeking re-election as president of the organization and Lowden will either run for the office or support a strong farm leader for the post.

Lowden, a strong republican, may even seek the next republican presidential nomination for himself while Bingham, an independent democrat, has voiced approval of the Coolidge administration.

In the midst of a bitter fight over proposed legislation to care for surplus crops, Aaron Sapiro, prominent co-operative marketing attorney, peremptorily resigned from the executive committee.

Sapiro resented the action of a group of delegates seeking to present a definite farm legislation program after he had spoken against a proposed surplus marketing bill.

RECOMMEND CLOSING OF LAKEHURST NAVAL AIRPLANE STATION

Washington, Jan. 13.—(UP)—Closing of the Lakehurst, N. J., naval lighter-than-air station reduction in personnel and the withdrawal of a number of ships from active commission was recommended today by the house appropriations committee in submitting the annual navy appropriation bill to the house.

The bill carries $317,274,787, an increase of $16,871,459 over the appropriation made last year for the Navy's activities during the fiscal year 1927.

"FLAPPER" HAS NO PLACE IN FRANCE

Rigid Seclusion Portion of Youthful Femininity.

The jeune fille even at this time of day is conspicuous by her absence as far as Paris is concerned, says a correspondent of the Manchester Guardian. At social functions there are amazingly few of her. If she works, it is another thing. She may study, she may have employment, but for the moment seems to disappear. In any case she is of singularly little actual importance. And her unimportance is reflected in the theater.

In England or America the "debutante" is always played by a young girl. Even the young married woman usually has to be really young. On the French stage the majority of these roles are played by older women, some of them so seasoned that except by their excellent acting they give not the slightest impression of youth. Similarly at the opera, in the foyer, at hotels, at tea places, and so-called "dancings," there are remarkably few girls.

Their place is taken by matrons, who are frequently well on in years, and in any case are so sophisticated in appearance as to have little in common with youth. Here and there the jeune fille may be seen at some of the big dressmaking establishments, but nearly always then because she is choosing her trousseau, which she does strictly under the guidance of her parents.

France would, indeed, seem to be the last stronghold of the older woman. The flapper is actually at a discount—still more, she does not exist as far as the towns are concerned. The idea is, of course, twofold. In a country where marriage is on a business basis it is important that the jeune fille should by no means be cheapened, that by her retirement she should have a suggestion of mystery to take the place of the Anglo-Saxon exhibition of one's character by one's own efforts.

The other reason is that the Frenchman—who is supreme in these days—prefers the sophisticated to the unsophisticated woman. An old woman is much more indulgent, and she has learned that the Frenchman must be indulged if he is to make a good husband. This is, of course, not to say that the jeune fille is really so unsophisticated. She is actually almost always far advanced.

Pastor Simpson M. E. Church, Minneapolis

"LOVE IS BLIND"

This proverb is sheer blasphemy. Nothing in all the world has the power to see that love has. The mother of the criminal sits behind him and wonders why the world condemns her boy. Love has worked the miracle in her tear-dimmed eye and she sees in him the virtue that no one else suspects him of. I see only a little ragged doll. But my little girl sees a child of beauty upon whom she can lavish her affection. To my eyes he was only a grizzled old man, but to the woman who had shared his poverty and affection for forty years he was a knight of the rarest chivalry. The rest of the crowd saw only a work-scarred old woman with a strange light in her eye there, in the front row. But the valedictorian saw her as the queenliest of them all. She was his mother. Along the tow path they knew him as "Jimmie Garfield, the mule driver," but his mother saw in him the power to become a great man. She was right. Love could see. To a stranger it was only a piece of striped cloth. To him it was a beautiful emblem—the flag of his homeland in whose folds lurked heroes and glory. Prejudice and ignorance are blind but love has second sight.

Unfortunate Truth

TWO SHIPS ELOQUENT REMINDERS OF PAST

Revived Memories of Other Days in Sailors.

Two days from the Azores we were chugging through a sea which scarcely rippled, a sea bereft of any vestige of shipping beyond ourselves. For days in fact, we had seen no other vessel, for although we were on one of the regular shipping lanes it is a significant fact that the highways of the ocean are much less frequented than they were in pre-war days. J. D. Gill, writes in the Boston Transcript. Now that we have returned to the piping times of peace, if not of plenty, we are apt to forget the war and all its ugly phases, which is perhaps all for the best. But on this particular day we had a little reminder of the past.

Early in the forenoon word traveled around the ship that a sail was sighted. A sail, mark you, in these days is a very rare sight, for there are few indeed of the type of craft which brought England her glory, her wealth, her supremacy of sea power, and above all her heritage of love for the ocean.

So it was with eager eyes we sought for the name of the lofty-masted, graceful vessel and vain would we have read something which indicated her nationality to be British. But our worst fears were realized as we read the name "Parma" on her bow, and simultaneously with the two ships drawing abreast, her flag was hoisted over the taff rail, to be dipped in the age-old custom of the sea.

The red, white and black of Germany.

Across the water, as we answered, came at first the faint notes of a cornet, and soon we caught the strains of "Tipperary."

To the men who lined the rails, there was little occasion to give further reminder of the war, for the majority of us had seen service of some sort, though mostly at sea. And to those who spent weary hours watching for only the sight of a Teuton and many others who had the experience of having had their vessel sink under them without even that satisfaction, it brought back a flood of memories. So passed the Parma of Hamburg, a gallant four-masted, square-rigged vessel, her colors flying proudly at her gaff.

Two months later, almost to the day, we were lurching along in the wake of a heavy southwest gale, off the banks of Newfoundland. Before breakfast a sail was sighted, though a vastly different type of vessel to the Parma of Hamburg. A small three-masted schooner she was, laboring heavily in the high Atlantic swell which was the result of the gale that had just passed.

A rather forlorn little vessel she seemed, struggling valiantly with the huge seas that appeared to engulf her as she was lost to sight in the trough of the swell. But she seemed to rise each time with a courage that was almost personal in its triumph over the elements, truly, we thought, a brave little vessel to pit itself against such overwhelming odds. A striking contrast from the splendor, the grandeur almost amounting to arrogance, of the Parma of Hamburg.

Across her stern we read the legend: "Edith M. Cavell, St. John's, Newfoundland."

Poetical Stock-Taking

With the Old Year going out, the prose-poet of the Tifton Gazette found himself in the stock-taking business, as follows:

"Look again, I would implore you, in the mirror before you; note the changes of the past year. Do you differ much, from last year?"

"Are you thirty-five or forty? Are you sprightly and cavorty? Are you forty-five or fifty? Are you feeling gay and nifty?"

"Oh, it's often true, I take it, that our age is what we make it; yet we may need stronger glasses, with each year-mark, as it passes."

"Yes, we're very apt to find us, as the time slips on behind us, with some evidences showing that the days of youth are going."

"And if any (let's be truthful), can succeed in keeping youthful, and can prove, as well as show it, he's an artist and you know it!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Plan Prehistoric Park

Twenty-seven acres of land just south of Hollywood will be converted into a prehistoric park by the Los Angeles Museum of History, Science and Art. A large number of bones of prehistoric animals have been found in the asphalt beds in this small area. If the plans work out, the park will be planted with trees and shrubbery as nearly as possible like those which grew there when the saber-toothed tiger, imperial-tusked elephant and their contemporaries roamed in the jungles of southern California. Prehistoric animals, reproduced in stone, will be placed in this reconstructed jungle.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Counting the Pennies

"Getting to work from an all-night poker party is sometimes something of a problem," says a downtown business man. "The other morning after an awfully bad session, I found I had just a few minutes in which to reach my office several miles distant. I had only $1.24 but I called a taxicab. I kept one eye on the meter and when the bill amounted to $1.10, I ordered the driver to stop. I wanted the ten cents for coffee and sinkers and the four cents for luck.—Detroit News.

WILLYS-KNIGHT GREAT SIX

The only engine that improves with use

Your own experience has proven that all poppet-valve motors wear out. Complicated and intricate valve mechanism ultimately yields to the incessant demands to which it is subjected. Carbon eventually gets in its destructive work on the finest of cylinders.

The experience of 275,000 Willys-Knight owners proves that service actually improves this sleeve-valve motor. No valves to adjust—two silently-moving sleeves—and that is all—control the intake and exhaust operations. Carbon serves but to seal compression hence to build up its efficiency.

When the finest of poppet-valve engines are worn out, the everlasting engine of your Willys-Knight is just coming into the full manhood of its power.

LEGISLATIVE CONTRIBUTION TO PROGRESS

PROCEEDINGS of life insurance presidents meetings are generally filled with charts and figures and demonstrations and stocks and bonds, etc., but occasionally by digging through a volume one can find some real interesting matter.

For instance, the Association of Life Insurance Presidents met in the Hotel Astor in New York last December and a Philadelphia lawyer, Major Thomas I. Parkinson, in his painstaking way, had gathered some interesting data about "Legislative Contribution to Progress."

"The great quantity and the bad quality of our statute law has long been the subject of vigorous criticism," said the major. "Indeed, there is no more popular after-dinner sport than devising new phrases in which to picture our legislative mills grinding out laws in feverish competition for leadership in quantitative production. Current criticism, though more picturesque, adds little to Alexander Hamilton's warning. 'The facility and excess of law-making,' says the Federalist, 'seems to be the disease to which our governments are most liable'; and again: 'It will be of little avail to the people that the laws are made by men of their own choice if the laws are so voluminous that they cannot be read or so incoherent that they cannot be understood.'

"In the various legislative sessions of Congress and the state legislatures during the last twenty years there have been introduced 954,625 separate and distinct bills or legislative proposals. We must remember that these huge totals are for bills introduced, not laws enacted. We are apt to over-emphasize the number of bills introduced as a legislative evil, forgetting that freedom to introduce bills proposing changes in our laws is a part of the constitutional right to petition the government for redress of wrong. This process of legislative selection resulted in the enactment of 233,563 separate statutes or about about one-fourth of the total bills introduced. The slaughter of undesirables was greatest in congress where only 13,463 enactments resulted from 291,848 bills.

"Many good legislative ideas are spoiled by hurried and unscientific drafting; as Sir Edward Coke said of the statutes of his day, 'on a sudden penned or corrected by men of none or very little judgment in law.'

"American legislators have been slow to recognize their need of competent draftsmen. When Senator Root proposed a legislative draftsman for congress he was told that they did not propose to turn over to a 'schoolmaster' the responsibility for law-making which their constituents had vested in them. It is to the credit of Claude Kitchin, democratic leader of the house during the Wilson administration, that he recognized the need and persuaded congress to provide official draftsmen who are contributing so much of improvement in the form and phraseology of the federal statutes.

"The legislative draftsman constantly finds his path beset with tantalizing difficulties some of which are inherent in the English language. One legislature, determining to deal vigorously with accidents at railroad grade crossings, provided that when two trains approach a grade crossing from different directions they shall both come to a full stop and that neither should start up again until the other had fully crossed. That makes up in effectiveness what it lacks in practicability.

"Governor Hodges cites a Kansas hotel act which requires that 'all carpets and equipment used in offices and sleeping-rooms including walls and ceilings must be well plastered.'

"A legislative commission engaged in drafting a workmen's compensation act after providing compensation for the widow of a killed workman defined the widow as 'only those who are living with the decedent at the time of his death.' In order to avoid the possibility of a plurality of claims the commission in a later draft presented the following definition: 'The term widow shall include only a widow living with the decedent at the time of his death.' What the commission was evidently trying to say was 'the decedent's wife living with him at the time of his death.'

"The defects of our statutes merit the criticism and derision which are daily heaped upon them. Wise and effective legislation is dependent upon attention to detail. It requires power in the legislator to analyze the problems which confront him; wisdom in selecting from available alternatives, and skill in the use of language.

"In the days of Webster and Clay the people looked to speeches on the floor of congress for leadership on important legislative questions. Today, leadership is more likely to be provided by the committees and the speeches on the floor follow the country's reaction to published committee proceedings. Our newspapers constitute a helpful supplement to the committee system in affording publicity to the facts and suggestions developed by the committee."

We see that Muldoon's edict against smoking at boxing bouts in New York city has aroused the ire of the fans attending. Well, it's this way. Heavy tobacco smoke vitiates the air and makes it hard to breathe. Any man taking violent exercise like a boxer, has his breathing handicapped by tobacco smoke. A singer is affected the same way. Muldoon made that order, not because he is a stickler for polite reform, but to help the boxers put up a better fight and not have their wind shortened by breathing tobacco-laden air. Of course, the tobacco accustomed fans hate to see their cigarettes and pipes banned.

OTHER communities are taking an interest in the coming Minnesota State Dairymen's convention at Brainerd January 19, 20 and 21. Exhibits of butter and cheese are flooding in from all over the state. Every express shipment carries many tubs. Locally, the Gull Lake Park Dairy was one of the first to enter its butter in the contest.

THE other day, in Rotary, we sang a song entitled "There's Music in the Air," which should be dedicated to the radio. It also carried a line mentioning an "ec-static" thrill.

Crown Prince Carol, Who Renounces Rumanian Throne, Crown Princess Helen and Little Son

One report in circulation in European circles, following Crown Prince Carol's renunciation of his rights to the throne and royal rank, was that it was love of Miss. Zizi Lambreino, the beautiful Rumanian he married morganatically seven years ago that prompted his action. The royal family had the marriage nullified in 1920 and the following year Carol married Princess Helen of Greece. She is shown above with their little son who may become heir to the throne.

Has Complete History of Spanish Mantilla

At last I have found the trail, Francis Milton exclaims, in exultant mood, in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Some years ago browsing in the archives of Palma in the Island of Majorca I came across a document which professed to give the history of the Spanish mantilla. Lately it turned up again among a mass of notes. The Spanish mantilla was originally a mark of shame for the femininity of loose morals of the day, a day away back before Goya and the Spanish painters took it out of its class and made it an appurtenance of the dress of the ladies of the court.

Originally the mantilla crossed its rather straggly ends of the time down over the breast in the form of a letter A. These bretelles were red. One wonders if Hawthorne ever knew this. There's the plot ready made. One and another of most modern and ancient writers went and took what they wanted where they found it, a procedure which is ethically legitimate up to a certain point.

It should be remembered that the mantilla of today resembles very little that of the fairlike Island of Majorca, where the sun ever shines and the thermometer never falls very low. By a process of development it came to be what it is, but it was always a headress. I put it that way, not being a fashion writer, but I vouch for the rest of the statement as supported by documentary evidence and only recount it here by the possibility of being able to drag in Hawthorne. That happens to be vivid in my mind because in my youth I once lived across the street from the House of Seven Gables. How the circles do cut in on one another, like those of the planetary system!

Herring Is Bread

What is to become of the people who live on the islands of the Zuyder zee in Holland when that sea becomes dry land? Pierre Van Passen asks, in the Atlanta Constitution. As far back as human memory goes these people have been fishers. The sea is in their blood. "Herring is bread," as they say themselves. From their very youth their whole life is directed toward the sea. "Only idiots and fools stay on dry land," a wrinkled old skipper told us once. The little gamins in their wide trousers can hardly walk when they fashion a ship out of an old wooden shoe, fix it up with rudder and sail and float it on the ditch. When they come from school they first must see the harbor. Is there a trawler running in or a tugboat they shout: "Did you see father?" and "How much of a catch did he have?" Fish and the Calvinist sermons of the pastor are their life and breath. The Dutch government, it is said, will compensate them. Nevertheless it all means the end of a picturesque race. And it will be just as hard to make landlubbers out of these children of the sea as it is for Russia to make Jewish merchants into farmers in Crimea.

College for Engineers

To supply trained engineers, especially for the automobile, motorcycle and bicycle industries, a technical college will be established at Wolverhampton, England. The total cost of construction will be about $600,000, of which one-third is to be paid by the county of Stafford and the remaining two-thirds by the city of Wolverhampton.

The buildings will be divided into five sections: (1) general and administrative, (2) biology, (3) commercial, (4) domestic, and (5) technical, comprising engineering production with workshops and drawing offices, material section, including chemistry, metallurgy, and general science subjects, mechanical and electrical engineering, and building construction.

It is intended to make provision for evening as well as day students.

Bromine From Sea Water

The strangest ship that ever sailed the seas left Wilmington, Del., recently on one of the strangest voyages that ever a ship sailed. This ship, called the Ethyl, is in reality a great floating chemical laboratory, equipped to extract the element bromine from sea water.

Bromine is a raw material useful in medicine, in photography and motion pictures, and in the manufacture of the ethyl fluid used in motor fuel. Through the last use of the world's supply the chemical has become greatly depleted, and the voyage of the Ethyl is the first step in an elaborate plan to find other sources of supply.

Monster Steam Boiler

The largest steam boiler in the world is being put in in Pittsburgh, Pa., by a heating company. There are six miles of four-inch steel tubing in the heating and condensing apparatus, with a heating surface of about three-fourths of an acre. The boiler is rated at 3,000 horse-power by the ordinary system of rating, but is capable of operating continuously at three times this capacity and for short periods at four times this rate. When at full load it evaporates 200 tons of water an hour.

Trains Negro Preachers

Each summer for seven years a negro preachers' institute has been held at Bettis academy, in the sand hill country of western South Carolina. Last year's attendance included 300 preachers and 180 teachers, and they spent four days in intensive subjects, under the leadership of Dr. James H. Billard, president of the Jeunes and Slater funds.

Melt the butter in frying pan, add the veal and cook until seared, or white all over, turn in the celery and onions and cook gently until the onions and celery are tender; then add the mushrooms with their liquor and a third cupful of water, together with the nuts, salt, pepper and Kitchen Bouquet. 4 CONFESSED BANK BANDITS GET LIFE TERMS

THE FINLAYSON BANK ROBBERS START SERVING SENTENCES AT STILLWATER

QUARTET HAILED FROM SUPER- IOR, ONE OF NUMBER 18 YEARS OLD

Pine City, Minn., Jan. 13.—(UP)—Four confessed bank bandits who robbed the State Bank of Finlayson, Minn., of $1,194.12, Dec. 29, started serving life sentences at Stillwater penitentiary today.

They were taken to the penitentiary last night following passage of sentence by Judge Alfred T. Stoberg.

The convicts are: Archie O. Andrews, 35, George A. Minett, 36, Homer Payne, 19, and Albert Krisler, 18, all of Superior, Wis.

Payne, the first to be arrested, was at large only two days after the robbery. He confessed his part in the crime and assisted police in rounding up his confederates. All had signed confessions before appearing in court.

They were sentenced under the law that provides life imprisonment for robbery of a bank occupied by human beings.

SANDSTONE HAS $100,000 FIRE

GENERAL HOTEL AND 4 OTHER BUSINESS STRUCTURES DESTROYED

Sandstone, Minn., Jan. 13.—(UP)—Fire starting in the basement of a grocery store destroyed the general hotel and four other business structures before firemen could check its spread here early today.

Loss is estimated at between $60,000 and $100,000.

The fire was discovered shortly after 9 P. M. yesterday but spread despite efforts of the fire department. It was not under control until early this morning.

The buildings destroyed were occupied by a grocery store, barber shop, pool hall and cafe. All were frame structures except one store and part of the hotel.

Guests at the hotel were warned soon enough to escape without danger. A telephone operator was rescued by firemen. None was injured.

Another Breed of Pups

Charles Ponzi, who made a fortune in Boston some years ago through the manipulation of foreign exchange, and then smashed horribly, said in Jacksonville the other day:

"I'm down here in Florida to try and make another fortune. Florida real estate, you know. I want to pay back all my creditors, too."

"I'm like the chap who complained at his club about the heavy losses he had sustained in Wall street. But a broker slapped him on the shoulder and said:

"Cheer up, brother. You mustn't go on like this because you've dropped a plunk or two. Come down to my office some morning and I'll give you a few pointers."

"It isn't pointers I'm after," said the loser; "it's retrievers!"

Use Newspapers

When you find the woodbox empty, go for the pile of newspapers. Take half a dozen sheets and roll them up cornerwise. Fold the roll to the size required, perhaps doubling into thirds, and tie together. Place some crushed paper in bottom of grate and lay four or five of the rolls over this. Scatter coal over it and light from the bottom with a piece of newspaper, just as you would a wood fire. There are housekeepers who always follow this method of kindling the fire. The children enjoy preparing the paper rolls for mother.

Colon Gone Wrong

A teacher of English was sorely afflicted with conditions that seemed to mean a surgical operation. One examination after another, with the X-ray liberally applied, finally disclosed the source of the pain.

"You have no disease in your appendix," said her medical advisor, "nor elsewhere that I can discover, except in your colon."

"Dear me!" she exclaimed. "Here I have been wrestling all my life with commas and periods and semicolons only to be told, at my age, that my colon has gone wrong."

Turning to Water Power

All of the countries of Europe, save England, have, because of the high price of coal, been making rapid progress in harnessing their water powers to produce electricity. For the three years ending in 1925, 3,400,000 horse-power of water-power produced electricity was added to the total capacity of the European hydro-electric generating stations.

Father of Italian Poets

Guido Guinicelli, an Italian poet, a native of Bologna, who died in 1276, is called by Dante in his "Purgatorio" "the father of Italian poets." Guido was a Ghibelline and was banished from Bologna in 1274.

EVEN EUROPE FEELS THE COLD TWINGES TODAY

Moscow, Jan. 13.—(UP)—Russia, accustomed to intense cold, is confronted today with a cold wave, the worst in many years. Elementary schools here closed because of the cold and telephonic communication with Leningrad and other northern cities was interrupted. Many fires are reported, resulting from increased heating. Thirty-five degrees below zero is the lowest recorded in the past 24 hours.

Rome, Jan. 13.—(UP)—Below zero temperatures were recorded in sunny Italy today, except at Sicily and Sardinia. Snow was reported at many points and provided here and in Naples an unwanted sight.

WILL COMMAND FLYERS IN QUEST OF CONTINENT WITHIN ARCTIC CIRCLE

Captain G. H. Wilkins will command a polar flight, financed by Henry Ford and several others, in the hope of discovering a continent somewhere within the Arctic Circle. Several noted army aviators will participate in the expedition. The planes will hop off from Point Barrow, Alaska, and fly directly over the North Pole, landing wherever feasible. If they do not find land they will continue their flight and land at Spitzbergen. Captain Wilkins is shown with a camera which will make motion pictures of the flight.

Ox Team's High Place in American History

Thoughtless people from cities and factory towns laugh at out-of-date ox teams occasionally seen in fields or on the road, but how few know that in other times, ox teams on every farm did valuable work while they grew to large size and then furnished food for the people who now depend on the West and South America for their beef and even Australia for their mutton! The little fellow has been laughed at out of his legitimate job, or considered not in keeping with the modern speed, so he must be hustled off to the shambles to furnish a few mouthfuls of food, bringing a little money to the farmer's purse. If allowed to live and earn his keep, that sturdy little bull calf would in time feed a multitude right at home and save the cost and car fare and refrigeration from the butcher's shop a thousand miles away.

Here is another important "but" that time has hit us over the head with. There is no Yankee boy, born on the farm to fall in love with Buck and Bright, to train them in the way they should go and be assured of a reciprocation of affection by the patient kine; and the hired man of today, irritable and irritating, would make a sorry companion for a pair of animals whose virtues of patience and faithfulness are the admiration of every man with a worth while soul all the world around.

All who can say whether the ox team of a past generation was not New England's greatest schoolmaster, teaching the youth by their example docility, domesticity, faithfulness, patience and endurance, willing to exert their marvelous strength when needed, lessons that sent young men to the four corners of the earth to surmount every obstacle and become leaders of men as they were as boys well-loved leaders of noble animals.—Turner Falls Reporter.

Sun Is Slow

One of the most important of the issues discussed by the fifth international congress of industrial chemistry in Paris concerned the ultra-violet ray and its practical potentialities. It has been established in the course of experiments that vanilla beans picked before ripening will develop normally and acquire all their characteristics of flavor and of smell when submitted to the action of ultra-violet rays; and that sugar cane, pineapple and bananas will attain perfect growth in much less than the normal time when treated in this artificial fashion. It has also been discovered that the ultra-violet ray provides a test whereby the purity of flour may be determined. This ray, brought to bear, for purposes of analysis, upon flour made from a mixture of barley and maize, as well as from wheat, showed up each ingredient with perfect clearness, and under this peculiar light influence the product of each grain taking on a slightly different color.

The ultra-violet ray, it is believed, has a great future in this kind of laboratory work.—New York Times.

The windjammer has just about given up the ghost, at least so far as the British flag is concerned. The old full-rigged vessel that once carried the brunt of the sea cargo is too slow nowadays and it doesn't pay.

The thousands of these British ships that sailed the seven seas now number six. All have served 30 or more years, and, with one exception are three-masted vessels.

Finland seems destined to become the world's last owner of ships of this type, as most of the British sailing vessels sold within recent years have been bought by Finnish interests. Grain from Australia, nitrate from South America and salt outward from Liverpool are about the only cargoes now offered for sailing ships.—Detroit News.

Record in Thinness

Some of the thinnest films on water ever subjected to scientific measurement were recently described before the National Academy of Sciences by Prof. W. D. Harkins and J. W. Morgan, of the University of Chicago. They are composed of only one layer of the molecules or building bricks of material substances, and some of them are so very thin that ordinary X-rays could not do their vibratory dance within the thickness if such a location were selected for their performance. Numerically, the thickness of some of the films was found to be twenty-four billionths of an inch. Professor Harkins explained that such thin films can be easily formed by simply spreading the proper kind of organic substance upon water.

Last of Great Line

The last direct male representative of the famous Hapsburg family, which gave rulers to the holy Roman empire, Austria and Spain, was Charles VI, who died in 1740. Maria Theresa, Charles' only child, succeeded him.

Gloria Starred in "Stage Struck" at New Park Theatre

"Stage Struck," the Allan Dwan production for Paramount which comes to the Park on Friday and Saturday, is a broad comedy with Gloria Swanson as a waitress in a small factory town on the Ohio River. She is smitten with Lawrence Gray, a pancake artist in the lunch room, who is fond of actresses.

To make a more favorable impression on the young fellow, Gloria is taking a correspondence school course in stage acting and is given a chance to show what she can do when one of the famous floating theatres which ply their way over the broad waters of the Ohio arrives in town.

Worth a Long Hunt

A tiny tube containing $800,000 worth of radium disappeared from a St. Paul hospital. It had probably been washed into the sewer. A radium detector was constructed which was attached to electroscopes and then began a long hunt along all sewers leading from the hospital. After weeks of patient searching the detector one day indicated radium inside a nine-inch sewer. Workmen dug down and there was the radium tube.—Capper's Weekly.

Wealthy Canada

Canada's wealth, says a return from the National City Bank of New York, has doubled in the last ten years, and since 1870 has increased more than seven-fold. She is now recorded as the seventh richest country in the world, national wealth totalling approximately $20,000,000,000.

"Abie's Irish Rose"

Anne Nichols record-breaking comedy success, "Abie's Irish Rose," which opens an engagement at the New Park theatre on next Monday, January 18, one night only has been hailed by the press and public as one of the biggest laughing hits in years. Aside from its comedy and many situations, the play has a well-defined story replete with tenderness and human interest, so that the auditor finds himself roaring with laughter one second and an instant later wiping away a stray tear from his or her eye.

Anne Nichols has been responsible for some of Broadway's biggest hits, among which may be mentioned "Just Married," "Linger Longer Letty," the vehicle in which Charlotte Greenwood scored the biggest hit of her career; May Robson's "Just A Little Bit Old Fashioned" and several others.

"Abie's Irish Rose," briefly, tells the story of the love and marriage of a Jewish boy and an Irish lass, and the attempts of their respective fathers to break up the match after the nationalities are discovered. Of course there is a happy ending, but how this is finally brought about must be seen to be appreciated.

"IRON DUKE" MULDOON IS TO BE RETIRED

HAD RULED BOXING IN N. Y. WITH HOT POKER

WELL MEANING, BUT GOT REST OF BOXING COMMISSION IN HOT WATER

RECENT EDICT AGAINST SMOK- ING AT BOXING BOUTS AROUSES IRE

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Jan. 13.—William Muldoon, venerable "Iron Duke," who ruled boxing with a furnace poker during the early days of the Walker law, is to be retired to his health farm in the country, according to common gossip in political circles.

Muldoon's term has expired and, according to fairly authentic information he is not to be reappointed. James A. Farley, chairman, whose term also has expired, is said to have indicated that he does not want to serve longer with a commissioner who could not be left alone.

It has happened several times in recent months that Farley and Geo. W. Brower, the third commissioner, have been unable to attend the meetings and Muldoon cut loose in their absence and got them in water so deep they couldn't find even a straw.

Muldoon's ideas have had the commission almost constantly on the anvil from managers and boxers but his recent edict against smoking at boxing bouts has aroused the public to a state of violent protest.

Muldoon indirectly caused a fist fight in an ante-room of the commission's office yesterday after he had suspended "John the Barber" and his son Johnny Reiser, lightweight fighter, for sixty days, for directing offensive language against Referee Patsy Haley, after a recent fight in which the decision went against Reiser.

"John the Barber" protested that he had done the talking, that the boy was not responsible and that a sixty-day suspension would put his boy, his wife and their child on the financial rocks.

"Sixty days, I said, for the two of you. No more talk," Muldoon roared.

"Boint me oop," John the Barber said, and the boy was "boint oop" too.

They met Haley in an outer room and young John slugged him on the jaw and John senior took a good kick at him before they were separated. Everyone is willing to grant that Muldoon has done a lot to help the game in New York but just when everything is serene he cuts loose and his fellow commissioners have to labor to get themselves out of the hole.

IOWA UNIVERSITY WRESTLING SQUAD ON TO MADISON

Iowa City, Iowa, Jan. 13.—(UP)—Seven University of Iowa wrestlers will leave here tomorrow night with Coach Mike Howard for Madison, Wis., where they will meet the University of Wisconsin in the opening mat duel of the 1926 Big Ten season Friday night.

Yegor of Boomer will take care of the heavyweight section. Weir will handle the 115-pound mixers. Beegs is scheduled for the 155-pound grappling.

While Kelley and Strubbe must fight it out today for the right to enter as 125-pound incumbents, Lenzmeier of Ames is doped to trim Martindale, date when they meet today for the 145-pound weights.

OBERLANDER IS OFFERED A JOB AS OHIO COACH

Columbus, O., Jan. 13.—(UP)—Swede Oberlander, Dartmouth's All-American back, has been offered the post of assistant football coach at Ohio State university, it was learned in authoritative circles today.

Dr. J. W. Wilce, Ohio State's football mentor, recently interviewed Oberlander at Hanover, N. H., and was expected to report upon the grid star's decision some time today.

Oberlander is understood to have met Dr. Wilce's overtures with the statement that he will consider the offer after completing his career. Oberlander is a senior.

R. A. GARDNER TO CAPTAIN SQUAD

New York, Jan. 13.—(UP)—Robert A. Gardner, Chicago, has been chosen captain of the amateur golf team that will invade England next summer to play a British team for the Walker cup, it was learned today.

While nothing official has been announced for publication by the U. S. Golf association, it is understood that invitations will be extended to Bobby Jones, Francis Ouimet, George Von Elm, Jess Guilford, Jess Sweetser, Roland Mackenzie and Watts Gunn.

The matches are to be played at St. Andrews on June 2 and 3.

Pioneer Builder
Benedict Biscop, an English monk of the Seventh century, was, according to the chronicler, William of Malmesbury, "the first person who introduced in England construction of stone edifices."

Yes, sir!
that's my buddy!

TRUBLE'S a bubble, just as the song says. And you can stick it with the stem of your old jimmy-pipe . . . packed to the brim with Prince Albert. Friendly, fragrant Prince Albert. Cool, comfortable Prince Albert. A pal in the pinches . . . a cheer-leader when you're on top.

Pipe-peeves vanish in a P. A. smoke-screen. Problems go up in smoke. Cool and sweet and fragrant, P. A. sifts into your system and pins a big red rose on the workaday world. Tobacco with a real mission in life . . . to make you pipe-happy and keep you that way!

And listen to this: P. A. can't nip your tongue or parch your throat! Because—the Prince Albert process put a padlock on tongue-torture right at the start; gave Bite and Parch the gate in the beginning . . . and they've never been back!

Men who thought they never could smoke a pipe have tried again with Prince Albert . . . and stuck! Go and do you likewise. There's a friendly shop nearby where they hand out P. A. sunshine in tidy red tins. Take the shortest cut. Step lively! Your tobacco troubles will then be over for all time.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

JOHN LEAK IS HONORED

Young Peoples Department at Methodist Church Remembers Birthday of Teacher

OCCASION OF 69TH BIRTHDAY

Gifts Presented Mr. and Mrs. Leak. Talks by Lawrence Ericsson and H. F. Michael

A very happy occasion occurred at the Methodist church last night when the Young Peoples' department remembered John Leak, their department superintendent and the teacher of the Young Men's class, it being his 69th birthday.

After dinner, the president of the department, Lawrence Ericsson presented Mr. Leak with gifts for himself and Mrs. Leak. Mrs. Leak was unable to attend because of ill health.

In his remarks, the genial superintendent of the school, H. F. Michael referred to Mr. Leak as Brainerd's most influential citizen. He based his statement upon the fact that during the 18 years he has taught the class hundreds of young men have come under his influence and they all told of how much they were benefited by coming into contact with him. The pastor, Rev. M. L. Eversz told of what a compliment it was to Mr. Leak to have forty young people join so heartily in wishing him many happy returns of the day. He said Mr. Leak has an understanding of the viewpoint of youth.

Mr. Leak is an engineer on the M. & N. railroad and makes three trips weekly between Brainerd and Kolliver.

McElligott-Caine

The McElligott-Caine wedding is of interest as the bride is known in Brainerd, and Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Webb and other Brainerd people attended the ceremonies.

On the twenty-eighth wedding anniversary of the bride's parents and on the fifty-sixth birthday of the mother of the bridegroom, the marriage of Miss Lois Del Caine, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Caine of Morris, Minn., and Dr. Edmund Wright McElligott of Appleton, Minn., and Chicago, son of Mrs. Maude McElligott of Minneapolis, was solemnized New Year's eve in the Merchants' hotel at Morris. Madonna lilies and cathedral candles were used to improvise an altar, before which the service was read by the Rev. Frederick M. Garland of Bishop Whipple's Episcopal church, Minneapolis, formerly rector of All Saints' church at Morris. The Rev. Garland had baptized the bride and had also presented her for confirmation.

Minneapolis guests who attended the wedding included Dr. and Mrs. Walter Hill McElligott, Messrs. and Mrs. E. H. Cornell, J. O. Pomroy, C. F. Woltham and Miss Elsa Woltham, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Harvey and Mr. William E. Harvey, Jr., Mrs. Maude Wright McElligott, Dr. Robert E. Brown, Miss Clara Hamack and Mr. W. W. McElligott.

Preceding the service, Mrs. Walter Hill McNeil sang a program, including "Love is a Rose," by Sam Souci; "All for Me," by D'Hardelot, and "I Ask the Sun." After the benediction she sang "O Perfect Love."

Miss Helen Harvey of Minneapolis and Miss Margaret Webb of Brainerd acted as bridesmaids, wearing chiffon gowns trimmed in silver. Miss Harvey's of turquoise blue and Miss Webb's of peach color. They carried Colonial bouquets of sweetheart roses and pink sweet peas. Pink chiffon elaborated in crystal beads and rhinestones was worn by the matron of honor, Mrs. Fred Redwood Orth (Mae Blossom) of Redwood Falls. Her flowers were Ophelia roses. Mr. John A. T. Caine, brother of the bride, of Minneapolis, served as best man.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown made in peasant style and trimmed in silver lace. Orange blossoms, which had been sent from California by Mrs. Charles H. Gangelhoff of Minneapolis, who is spending the winter in the west, were used, with rosepoint lace to hold her lace veil, and she carried a shower of roses.

Dr. and Mrs. McElligott left on a short western trip, to visit friends. They will make their home in Chicago, where Dr. McElligott is serving as senior interne. Mrs. McElligott is a graduate of Northrop Collegiate school, attended the University of Minnesota and was graduated from the University of North Dakota last year. NEW TYPE OF SCREEN SHOW

Thrilling Film Picture With Prologue And Electrical Effects at Park Sunday

COMPANY OF FIVE PEOPLE

Finkelstein & Ruben Male Quartet And Agnes Lerstad, Soprano, Featured

A new type of motion picture house presentation which has proven a sensation in the larger theatres throughout the country, will be offered to local picture patrons when the dramatic production, "One of the Bravest," comes to the New Park theatre Sunday for one day only, matinee, and two night performances.

The outstanding feature of the presentation is an atmospheric prologue which boasts of a company of five performers and special mechanical and lighting effects. Said to be produced on the same mammoth and elaborate scale as offered in the larger cities, this new type of presentation is the first of a series that will be offered to local theatregoers from time to time.

The Finkelstein and Ruben male quartet and Agnes Lerstad, soprano, will be featured in the prologue while the specially designed setting, heralded as one of the most realistic mechanical effects ever produced on the stage, will depict a raging fire with falling timbers and crashing buildings.

The screen attraction, "One of the Bravest," a thrilling fire special will feature the veteran character actor, Ralph Lewis and a score of favorites, Edward Hearn, Claire McDowell, Pat Somerset, Marian Mack and Sid Franklin will play the more important roles in the support.

Much comedy, a strong theme of romance and the daring exploits of the fire fighters are said to be skillfully interwoven to make this film one of wide appeal. Mr. Lewis interprets the role of an aged fire chief, whose dream is that his son succeed him. The man achieved at his son's cowardice receives another shock when he learns that the boy has stolen money entrusted to him. The crisis comes about in a highly dramatic climax in which the son proves his worth and clears his name.

The above attraction is being booked throughout the F. & R. circuit as a special road show, and brings to Brainerd for the first time, real city presentation. If it proves successful, it is planned to send more of these attractions over the circuit.

RAINBOWS 16, FRAZEE TEAM 28, IN FAST GAME

BRAINERD CITY TEAM DEFEATED BY RANGY SIX-FOOTERS

GAME WAS A CLEAN CONTEST, WITH MANY FOULS CALLED

The Rainbows journeyed to a 28-16 downfall Monday night, the fast Frazee city team taking the measure of the Brainerd boys in a fast game at Frazee. The winners are a rangy bunch of six-footers, and a fast, heady group of men.

The game was a clean contest, with many fouls called by the referee for the slightest infraction of the rules. The referee was very good, and kept the game fast and clean by his careful watching of the play. The game started with a bang, and before many minutes had expired, two Brainerd men had a brace of personals each, and had to be careful from then on. With this advantage, Frazee started to walk away from the Rainbows.

Going on the floor after a 94 mile ride, with only forty-five minutes rest, the Rainbows showed a fast brand of playing despite their long and tiresome ride. Beresford, ace of the Rainbows, did not make the trip on account of classes and high school basketball practice. Eberhast, center for Frazee, was the scoring star, with four field goals and four free throws. Brink and Bryson each scored three from the field, and Brink added two from the free throw line.

The Rainbows play a return contest with Frazee at Brainerd on Feb. 3rd, and a fast game is assured.

THE YEAR IN BASEBALL

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Jan. 13.—Baseball had another year of success and prosperity in 1925. The game flourished with hot pennant races in the two major leagues and hot competition in the minors.

The fight the Washington Senators had in the American league to beat off the Philadelphia Athletics and the impressive victory of the young Pittsburgh Pirates over the New York Giants in the National league stimulated interest generally in the game.

It was unfortunate that the world's series was spoiled by beastly weather, but nothing was lost but comfort as the stands were packed for the games and a new record for receipts was established.

The bad weather encountered in Pittsburgh convinced some of the major league magnates that the season should be closed earlier and it was decided to close the schedule this year on Sept. 26 and to start the world's series on Sept. 28 or 29.

The National league owners lined up solidly with eight votes against the early closing but Commissioner Landis voted with the eight American league magnates and it passed.

To avoid the danger of interruption by darkness, it was also voted to start the world's series games at 1:30 instead of 2 o'clock.

The result of the National league pennant race was pleasing, particularly to the fans around the circuit who had tired of the protracted domination of the New York Giants.

The Pittsburgh Pirates had a fine young team and they were deserving champions. They had to fight to win and they would have had a harder battle if the Giants had not suffered a distressing run of accidents and bad breaks that almost wrecked the club completely.

The Pirates, however, were handicapped also by a miserable start. The team was not in shape when it returned from the California training camp and it was months before the players got going.

It took a good, game team to win the pennant and even a gamer club to win the series from the Washington Senators.

The collapse of the New York Yankees was the outstanding development of the American league season.

Wally Pipp went so bad that he had to be replaced at first by Buster Gehrig. Deacon Scott slowed up so much that he was traded to the Senators and Babe Ruth's trouble demoralized the club.

The Babe had to be brought home from the training camp on a stretcher and he was in the hospital for weeks in the early season after an operation.

When he did get back into the game he didn't behave and he was finally suspended and fined for insubordination. The club, of course, missed his hitting and the morale of the players was broken by refusal to abide by the training rules.

The surprisingly good showing of the Philadelphia Athletics was as unexpected as the collapse of the Yankees. Mack's youngsters fought it out with the champions until the last quarter of the season when the team fell into a long losing streak.

Excellent pitching by the veterans, Walter Johnson, Stanley Coveleskie and Dutch Reuther, enabled the Senators to win the championship.

Bucky Harris, the young manager of the champions, made a shrewd move when he picked up Coveleskie and Reuther. No one but Harris claimed them when they were about to be tossed to the minors and if he hadn't obtained them it is doubtful that the club would have won the championship.

Coveleskie and Reuther went bad just before the world's series started and the weakness of the pitching staff without them was strikingly apparent.

Business generally was good in the major leagues although a decrease was reported from New York, Cincinnati and Brooklyn.

This caused some surprise as they are three of the best baseball towns in the National league.

New York possibly was fed up on championship teams and Cincinnati hasn't had enough champions and Brooklyn is just Brooklyn.

The Brooklyn fans almost rode Jack Fournier, one of the hardest workers on the club, out of baseball.

Fournier threatened to retire from baseball rather than continue taking abuse from the Brooklyn fans but changed his mind.

MORGAN TO BATTLE McLEAN

MORGAN ENTERS RING AT OAKLAND, 2 TO 1 FAVORITE, OVER McLEAN

Oakland, Cal., Jan. 13.—(UP)—Tod Morgan, new junior lightweight champion will enter the ring here tonight 2 to 1 favorite over Steward McLean, St. Paul battler.

The fighters will meet at 131 pounds. Morgan's title not being at stake over the 10-round decision route.

Morgan has two decisions over McLean, gained before Morgan annexed the championship from Mike Ballerino. The two also boxed a draw, but followers of the game see a vast improvement in Morgan's ability and onne for McLean.

Al Tierney, president of the western league and leader of the Anti-Sexton faction, wired that he was ill and will be unable to attend the meeting. Western league club owners held their annual meeting without Tierney. Barney Burch, president of the Omaha club, presiding.

Larry Arnold, owner of the Lincoln club and Otto Borchert president of the Milwaukee club were the most popular magnates in the lobby of the St. Catherine hotel. Both are looking for managers and they were besieged by applicants.

NEW RULES FOR "PUT AND CALL" TRADING

Chicago, Jan. 31.—(UP)—New rules for the "put and call" system of trading have been formulated for the Chicago Board of Trade. The new rules provide for a five per cent charge for members and 10 per cent for non-members. This is in addition to the charge of $1 for each 1,000 bushels.

This action follows the supreme court's decision invalidating the heavy tax placed on this particular form of trading. The tax had been so heavy that "put and call" trading had become practically extinct on the board.

STOCKS ARE BUOYANT

New York, Jan. 13.—(UP)—Stocks gave a good account of themselves today, notwithstanding the adverse influence on speculative sentiment exercised by the abandonment of attempts to settle the anthracite coal strike.

Another factor which made the steadiness of the general list noteworthy was the opinion generally prevailing in professional circles that prices had rather fully discounted business improvements and the next movement of importance was destined to be downward.

Feeling as they did about the market outlook big traders offered stocks freely but were given pause by the impressive manner in which their selling was absorbed. No important liquidation was forced. On the contrary the day's substantial movements were almost uniformly on the side of advancing prices.

The market closed irregular.
